THE STRIKERS LEFT ALONE

Business on the Roads Conducted with No Trouble Except from Switchmen.

Engineers and Firemen Can Get No Encouragement from Their Chiefs to Go Out-Sargent Says He Has Nothing to Do Here.

The freight that was carried over the Belt road, the Union tracks and for city deliveries yesterday would lead one to think that the strike was at an end, but the strikers are not disposed to look at it in that light. The superintendents say that they not only have all the men they need, but have turned many away who are seeking work. However, it is noticesble that a considerable force of the regular train men are still assisting at the switches in the yards, but it is stated that they are simply teaching the new men. Superintendent Bennett, of the Chicago, St. Louis & Pittsburg, said: "We are using eight switching crews, two more than usual, because we are obliged to push things during the day, as it is still unsafe to do anything after dark." Early last evening a crew which went to deliver a train-load of hogs at Kingan's was stoned but got off without serious injury. Superintendent Day, of the Lake Erie & Western, reported that four experienced railroad men applied to him for work but he employed only two, his complement of men being full. Superintendent Bender is working a number of new men with conductors who are instructing them. and yesterday the yards of the Big Four were weil cleared of delayed city freights. Trains even went around the horn to the flouring mills to get loaded cars. Superintendent Ewan had five crews in service, some new men and others made up of men brought in from other points. The C., H. & D. people seemed to be in clover, as they have for two days past, it is reported, under the direction of Trainmaster Conners, been doing a heavier business than at any time in many months. N. K. Elliott, superintendent of transportation of the Vandalia, said he had everything moving along smoothly, and, having forwarded over the Beit road yesterday 252 loaded cars, had relieved the city yards. Superintendent Wilson, of the Ohio, Indiana & Western road, who had three crews at work, says the strike has demonstrated that three faithful train crews will do as much work as five of the strikers did.

The companies have suffered but little loss, aside from that caused by delayed freights. A few depredations have been committed, but they cannot be justly charged to the strikers. Night before last several switch lights, costing about $4 each, were stolen, and switches have been turned, but without causing serious damage. The superintendents are not replacing the strikers to the number which have gone out, and it is thought that when they admit that they are beaten and will come back, cutting loose from associations that encourage strikes, some of the men will be re-employed; but as the matter now stands they are all discharged.

Sargent's Emphatic Refusal. It was announced among the switchmen yesterday afternoon that Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, would come to the city last night, and many of the strikers were in hopes he would encourage the engineers to go out. Sweeney, of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, and Wilkinson, on behalf of the brakemen, were at the station to meet the head of the enginneers' brotherhood, but he did not come. Chief Sargent, of the firemen's organization was, however, on the Bee-line train. He was just passing through, and his conference with the two men took place at the step of his sleeping-car. It was evident that these could not agree, and Sweeny and Wilkinson were considerably displeased with what Sargent had to say. After the conference was over a Journal reporter asked Mr. Sargent if he would take any action regarding the switchmen's strike. "No, sir, I will not," said he. "I have no business in Indianapolis, and have no business to meddle with the strike.'

"Were you asked to come to Indianapolis?" "No, sir. My presence has been asked in New Orleans, and I am on my way there. I shall not stop off in Indianapolis, and will not return here, so far as I know now." "You have no authority to order a strike, have

"None in the world. It is my business to prevent strikes if I can, for we are opposed to them. If the Indianapolis firemen have a grievance they can submit it to us, and we can tell then whether or not it is just. Then they can strike on their own responsibility if they want

"Have the Indianapolis firemen reported a grievance to you?" 'They have not. As I said, I have no business in Indianapolis.

"Will Chief Arthur be here!" "He will not, so far as I know. We came together from New York to Cleveland, his home. He stopped there, and I do not think he has any business here, either."

Wilkinson, of the brakemen, is very indignant because the engineers and firemen will not come to the rescue of the switchmen. He said, last night, that it was a very ungrateful act. The switchmen and brakemen had always given up their jobs to hackmen, crying in a babel of tongues the mer-help the engineers out, but when an opportunity its of the several hotels. The first thing the The switchmen and brakemen have aided the engineers the last time," said he. It seems that nearly all the brakemen are anxious to assist the switchmen, but will not do so unless the engineers and firemen will also go out.

Possible Trouble in the J., M. & I. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30. - Six men left here to-day to take the places of striking switchmen in the Panhandle yards at Indianapolis. Ed Bell, one of the strikers, who was returning from Louiswille, where he had been on official business, this morning stated that arrangements had just been perfected whereby all the switchmen in the Jeffersonville, Madison & Indianapolis railroad yards at Louisville, Jeffersonville and New Albany, would go out unless the railroad companies acceded at once to the demands of the strikers at Indianapolis. He said that the engineers and brakemen were also in sympathy with them and if it becomes necessary they would join them also.

The Benevolent Society's Anniversary. The fifty-third anniversary of the Indianapolis Benevolent Society, with General Harrison presiding, will be observed at English's Operahouse to-morrow night, after a programme in which addresses and music will be the principal features. The exercises are to begin with the choir singing the "Jubilate," by Schaffer, after which the Rev. Dr. Cleveland will offer prayer, and, following him, the Rev. D. R. Lucas will give a scriptural lesson. Superintcadent Charlton, of the State Reform School, will talk on "What Makes Bad Boys," and the Rev. Byers, Secretary of the State Board of Charities, of Ohio, will speak "On the Organization of State Charities." The addresses will be completed by that of the Rev. O. C. McCulloch, on "Social Parasitism, or the Need of Charity Organization." In the course of the evening Campana's "Ave Maria," and Schnecker's "Te Denm" will be sung, the former by Miss Lottie Herron and Mr. Riegger, and in the latter number that lady and Mr. Herron will be the soloists. The society was prganized in 1835, and is the general channel through which relief is distributed. It operates the Friendly Inn and Wood-yard; the industrial committee, and free baths; finds work for men and boys, girls and women; buys and furnishes coal to members of the Dime Saving Association. The receipts for the year 1887-8 were $3,428.58; expenditures, $3,159.36. The society furnished 489 meals and 1,254 lodgings; gave work to 800 men, and gave 12,175 free baths. Loyal Legion.

A TRIP THROUGH ITALY.

Mr. Harris Tells an Interested Audience of What He Saw in His Journeyings.

There was a good audience at the High-school Hall last night to hear the Hon. A. C. Harrris lecture on "Rome and Italy." In opening his talk he compared continental railway traveling with that of the United States, saying that one evening late in March he started from Paris for Italy, in a tight compartment carriage, that bumped and bowled along after the manner of a freight car, and, awaking in the morning he saw upon the one side the blue Mediteranean stretching far to the south, with the lazy smoke of a steamer in the distance, while upon the other arose steep mountains upon the sides of which were seen the peculiar green clumps of the olive. As the train drew into Marseilles all the passengers felt that they had left behind the winter of the north and found a new tropical spring. After a few hours at Marseilles, they came to Nice. on the sea, protected from the cold blast by the mountains and receiving draughts of warm air from Africa. "It is the Long Branch of the continent," the lecturer continued, "and here we found all the delights of European travel, with theaters, hotels, and beautiful shops where you can buy anything you may want. Here was a great public park, where every afternoon a band of fifty pieces plays exquisite airs. You hire a seat for 2 cents, buy a newspaper from any part of the world, call for anything you want to drink, and sit down to enjoy the scene before you. On the the way to Monte Carlo the traveler sees a great wall built as a breakwater, which had been rent by the recent earthquake. There, also, were the people living in tents, with their houses all in ruins. The only people, almost, who had been killed were those whose piety happened to lead them into the churches at the time of the catastrophe. A few miles further on stood a stone pier, forty feet in diameter, built by Cæsar at the time of the division between Spain and the Roman Empire. Soon the travelers arrived at Monaco, where they spent a day. Monaco is a kingdom by itself, with a police force, a standing army of seventy-two men, a length of five miles and an area not greater than that of Indianapolis Everything is bright in Monaco; the streets are all paved as Washington street is now being paved. Monaco is the only government in the world which collects no taxes. It used to be poor, but now fashionable gambling has made it immensely rich. And it all came about from a German once going to the King, who was very poor, and proposing that if he would sanction the enterprise he would establish a great gambling establishment and his Majesty should share the profits. The re-suit is the wonderful Monaco of to-day. They have built a large Casino, where a band of many pieces discourses music free of charge, and there is a library where you may read papers from any part of the world. There are also the "long tables," which have earned such fame. One gentleman impressed him as being a Russian, from his leathern complexion and the cool manner in which he bet $100 every five minutes on the play. But there were other faces of those unaccustomed to the excitement, where every passion was in full play that a painter could wish to portray. From Monaco Mr. Harris went through Italy en route to Rome. In speaking of the primitive agriculture of the people, the lecturer said that the larm laborers of the Roman race all lived in villages, and not in isolated homes, after the sturdy Anglo-Saxon manner. They are a social people, and would rather go many miles to and from their work each day than to be cut off from social enjoyments. Their plowing was after the most primitive order, accomplished by a wooden implement drawn by oxen and attended by three men, one to drive the animals, one to guide the plow, and one to see that the work is done properly. One evening the lecturer and his party came upon a great tower about dusk, which proved to be the "Leaning Tower" of Pisa, they remained until morning to see it, stopping at a hotel with a most gracious landlady. "And by the way," said Mr. Harris, "there are no such things as landlords in the lesser towns of Italy, and no nuisances of hotel clerks. When one sits down at table d'hote, he is expected to talk agreeably his neighbors and is regarded boor if he does not. Now understood none of the divers tongues spoken at table that night, and was greatly reheved to have a little girl address me in excellent English. She said she was from Berlin, and had read in the schools there Shakspeare, Tennyson and Longfollow, in their native language." The speaker then described the Leaning Tower and latest speculation by Italian architects of the origin of its position. It is that some one of their craft in a boastful spirit built it to show merely that the feat could be accomplished and the work stand for centuries. Near by is a grave-yard with a curious history. When the Catholic Church was filled with zeal to go to Jerusalem and recover the bones of Jesus from the sepulchre, thousands joined the expedition and many died in Jerusalem. As Pisa was very wealthy, she had fifty ship-loads of earth brought from the Holy City to this spot and buried her own dead in it. From Pisa the party, of which the speaker was a memwent to Rome. They rolled into magnificent depot brilliantly lighted electricity one evening about supper time, and were met by a vast horde of

came to return the favor they would not accept | lecturer did in the Eternal City was to talk to an American friend at another hotel over an American telephone. The city of to-day, he said, was a beautiful place, having finely-paved streets, lighted everywhere by electricity, and possessing large shops, where "anything from every-where" could be obtained. The ancient city was larger in its prime than the city of New York, and lay upon the high land around the Tiber, which is to-day a small stream, not as broad as Washington street, this city. The lecturer concluded with an estimate of the national character of the Italians of to-day, to which, he said, one could do no greater injustice than to form his conceptions from the 'dagos" imported for rough labor here. The Italians are advancing as rapidly in civilization as any nation, the Americans, perhaps, excepted, and possess a great advantage over the latter in their laws securing compulsory educa-

AMUSEMENTS.

THE CAMILLA URSO CONCERT. The first of the entertainments that are to be given through the Indianapolis Lecture Course occurred last night, at Tomlinson Hall. The audience was charmed with the music that came from Camilla Urso's violin. It seemed as if her listeners would never tire of listening to it, as applause after applanse followed each number. The lady responded by giving, in turn, the "Old Folks at Home," the "Last Rose of Summer," and a third composition of popular character. Miss Phila May, the soprans, and Mr. Louis Miller, the tenor, also pleased the listeners, as did Mr.

F. A. Fuller. NOTES. Kiralfy's gorgeous production of "Mazulm" is evidently pleasing the audiences at English's better than any other attraction that has been seen there this season. The theater was filled again last night. There will be only two more performances, the matines this afternoon and to-night. Miss Jarbeau and her clever company will appear in "Starlight" at the Grand at the matinee this afternoon, at the popular prices prevailing at matinees there, 25 and 50 cents to all parts of the house. At the Park at both performances to day, Mr. Frayne will give "Kentucky Bill." The attraction at this house next week will be the new sensational comedy, "The Scarlet IX."

The company, including Miss Emma Juch, Mme. Teresa Carreno, and other talented musical people, which is to give a concert at Tomlinson Hall, on Wednesday evening of next week, is regarded as one of unusual strength. Emma Juch, a singer who ranks with the best goioists in the country, has been with companies under the management of Mapleson, Lock, Theodore Thomas, and others equally well known, and in all she has achieved success, Teresa Carreno is a pianist known to everybody. She has but few, if any, equals now before the public. These two artists are assisted by Miss Hope Glenn and Leopold Lichtenberg. The advance sale now going on at D. H. Baldwin &

Co.'s promises a fine audience. Hermann, the greatest of necromancers and magicians, accompanied by Mme. Hermann and D'Alvine, the Hindoo juggler, is underlined for the Grand the first part of next week, in an entirely new entertainment. Seats are now on | geography, history, doctrine and institutions of sale for the engagement. The exhibition of the painting "Christ Before Pilate" closes to-night at 10 o'clock. It will be

The Francis Murphy Movement to Be Revived Here Under Y. M. C. A. Auspices.

Big-hearted Francis Murphy, grayer-haired and more portly than when he made his last temperance tour of the country, but still rosy and smiling, took off his overcoat at the New come to make Indianapolis a visit. "I don't know how long I will stay," he said shaking hands vigorously with the reporter, "but with God's help I hope to do some good while here. You know I have thought it best to carry on my temperance work in my own way, without any effort at compulsion or enforcement, simply appealing to men's better natures, their love for others their own self-respect, to save from the curse of intemperance. I have concluded I could do more good by keeping away from prohibition or third-party movements than by connecting myself with them, and for this reason I have kept quiet during the recent political campaign, getting at the same time the benefit of much needed rest and recreation. Now that the political turmoi is over. I have taken the field again with malice toward none and charity for all, and trust that under Providence I may have some measure of my old-time success in winning back my brethren who have fallen into evil ways, and helping to start them afresh in paths o peace and prosperity. I have never spoken in Indianapolis before, but have been in Indiana and know the whole-souled and earnest character of the people here. I do not know any reason why I should not accomplish as much, with God's blessing, in this city as I have accomplished elsewhere." "When and where do you begin?" "I expect to commence in the hall of the Y. M. C. A. building Sunday evening, and speak there every night if the accommodations are sufficient; if not, the Lord will provide bigger ones. My boy Ned will be here to help me the latter part of next week. He has gathered in almost as many signers as I have to the Murphy pledge since he devoted himself to the work. We neither of us try to drive people, but to enlist their willing support. Come and bring your friends, and let us reason together."

An Estimable Lady Gone.

Mrs. Sarah A. Smith died at her home, No. 295 English avenue, on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day. She was born in Bedford county, Virginia, in 1811, and nineteen years later came to this city with her husband Hugh, who was a shoemaker. About 1845 Mrs. Smith opened a school at her home, and later, in 1855, was assisted by her now only surviving child, Anna Mary. The school was continued by them until after the war. Mr. Smith died in 1871, and at his funeral the pall-bearers were Wm. Hadley, Wm. Pyle, Wm. Pray, G. H. Shover, Geo. W. Miller, and Geo. W. Crane. The same gentlemen will act in that capacity at the funeral of Mrs. Smith this afternoon. The deceased had been identified with the Friends' Church for many years. Before being troubled with asthma, by which she has been afflicted many years, she was very energetic in the work of the church and the cause of temperance.

THE JOURNEY TO THE TOMB.

The Passing of Mrs. Gen. Sherman's Funeral Cortege through This City Last Night.

The funeral car bearing the remains of the wife of Gen. W. T. Sherman, accompanied by the bereaved husband and members of the family, passed through the city at 11 o'clock last night, en route to St. Louis, where the burial takes place to-day.

The train over the Pennsylvania road, bringing the party from New York, was about thirty minutes late. Early in the evening Mr. Russell Harrison visited the Union Station, at the instance of the Presidentelect, to ascertain definitely at what hour the distinguished party would arrive. It was General Harrison's intention, had the train arrived earlier, to visit the station and personally extend to his old commander his heartfelt sympathies, but upon learning that the train would not arrive until 11 o'clock, he wrote a note of condolence and sent it to General Sherman by the hand of his son Russell. When the train pulled into the depot General Sherman was sitting alone, with bowed head, in the rear state-room of the private car of President Roberts, of the Pennsylvania road, and beside him rested the black casket containing the remains of his devoted wife. At the head of the casket were two palm leaves crossed and tied with purple ribbon, while on the foot rested a wreath of hyacinths and lilies of the valley, tied with white ribbon. The General looked tired and care-worn, and the attendants stated that he spent the greater part of last night with his two sons sitting beside the coffin. All the other members of the party had retired for the night, and the majority of them occupied berths in the sleeper immediately ahead of the funeral car. General Sherman and his sons and daughters, however, occupied sleeping apartments in the same car with the remains. While the train stopped here Mr. Russell Harrison delivered General Harrison's written message, and also conveyed verbally his father's and his own deep sympathy. The party comprised General Sherman, and his sons Thomas Ewing and Tecumseh Sherman, his four daughters, Mrs. Fitch, Mrs. Thackara, Misses Lizzie and Rachel Sherman, Mrs. Colonel Steele, of Lancaster, O., sister of the deceased, Gen. Hugh Ewing and Judge Philemon Ewing, brothers of deceased, and two sons of General Ewing, Col. Thomas W. Fitch and Lieutenant Thackara. The funeral train will reach St. Louis at 7:20 over the Vandalia It is the intention of General Sherman and nearly all the other members of the family to leave St. Louis Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock, returning to New York by the same car that carried them westward.

Got Home to Thanksgiving.

Governor Gray's records yesterday contained the entry of a pardon granted to William Michaels, of New Albany, or the preceding day, which must have furnished special occasion for thanksgiving in at least one household. Michaels, who is quite a young man, was serving a sentence of seven years, beginning in February. 1886, at the Southern prison, for killing a man at New Albany in an altercation growing out of an insult given Michaels while the latter was calling on his sweetheart. His character up to the time of the killing was a good one, and the petition in favor of his pardon was generally signed. Governor Gray telegraphed a pardon in time to secure Michaels's release and permit him to go home to a Thanksgiving dinner.

Severe Storm to Kansas. KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30 .- Nearly all the eastbound trains on the western roads were a little late this morning. The delay was caused by the severity of the storm, which seems to have swept over the entire State of Kansas. Engineers report heavy falls of sleet and rain in the eastern and southern portions of the State, and heavy snow in the western portion. The Colorado express, of the Chicago, Kansas & Nebraska, from Denver, due here at 7:30 last night, did not arrive until 4 o'clock this morning.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by expelling impurity from the blood, which is the cause of the complaint. Give it a trial.

Ringing Noises

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, or snapping like the report of a pistol, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the greal blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, "I have been a sufferer from catarrh for a good | as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth street, N. W., Washington, D.C. Of the European governments that of Switzerland resembles our own the most closely.

The Confederation of Cantons there is analogous to the Union of States here, but there are differences of a minor sort. For example, the President of Switzerland holds office only one dent was Vice-peesident last year. He belonged Kyburg, Canton Zurich. After receiving a good academic education, he entered the service of his native canton as forest officer, whence he was promoted, after some years, to be inspector of the forests of Zurich. During the nine years from 1870 to 1879 he was a member of the government of that canton. Subsequently he was a member of the National Assembly and of the Council of States; also Vice-president, as previously stated. From 1872 Hertenstein was a colonel of artillery. He was at one time head of the military department in the Swiss Council.

Poet Riley's Key to Success.

"Do you want to succeed in life?" asked James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, of Nelly Bly, whose book of poems has just been most flatteringly received by the English public and "I do," she replied, with an earnestness that might have been felt a block.

"Then dress well," he said. "The secret of success is a good personal appearance. Why, if I struck a town with only 50 cents in my pocket the first thing I'd do would be to go to a barber shop. A barber shop is the intelligence office and newspaper of every town. So, you see, my first move would be to go there. I'd have a shave and give the barber my 50 cents, and when he offered me back the change I'd tell him with a knightly wave of my hand, 'It's all right.'

He would tell everybody else, and it would help me to get an opening somewhere. But about dress. Now wouldn't you rather give a nickel to a beggar who was brushed and had a clean face than to one who was not? Any one would. When one goes to a hotel doesn't the clerk take an inventory of his guest before he gives a room, and doesn't the room always match the appearance! If I want to sell some verses the editor glances at me. If my clothes are shabby he thinks, 'Oh, he's in hard luck and will be satisfied at any price.' If my appearance is that of prosperity he'll be afraid to offer me a small price, or if not afraid at least ashamed. A woman should be even more particular. Her gowns give her place more than a man's coat. Men always look at the women's dress, and in almost every instance judge accordingly. To be successful one must look suceasier. Take my advice if you want to succeed

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one third the size of the other, and I was in a hopless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try your OUTICURA REMEDIES, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified, and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect and not a sign of the disease
